

YELLOW-BILLED CUCKOO

Nests in the treetops of large deciduous trees.

GREATEST THREAT

Climate change has decreased the population of caterpillars that Yellow-billed Cuckoos eat during nesting. If this trend continues, the cuckoos might not have enough food to feed their young.

HOW CAN YOU HELP?

Ride your bike or walk to school.

The Southern Wings Program funds forest restoration for migratory birds, including the Yellow-billed Cuckoo in Mexico.
